JACINDA THE UNTOLD STORIES

9781067094706 RRP $39.99 David Cohen Paperback 250 Pages 150 x 210 mm Nov 2025

ASKING THE HARD QUESTIONS

Drawing on more than 100 interviews and extensive research, journalists DAVID COHEN and REBECCA KEILLOR track the rise, fall and re-emergence of former NZ Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern onto the global stage, just as the UN gears up to choose a new Secretary-General. With the world on a powderkeg, is Ardern up to the job?

The debate rages, still, around this polarising leader:

"We didn't spend enough time debating serious things in Cabinet that I can recall..."

"She always made me sit up a bit straighter"

"The marketing department was in overdrive but the operations department was almost non-existent."

"For the first time in 40 years I voted Labour."

C. James

Paperback

530 Pages

320 x 230mm

Nov 2025

In the late 1980s, New Zealand underwent a 'quiet revolution' – quiet only in that it didn't involve guns and physical violence. It was a revolution of values. A remnant colony shucked off its deference to empire, opened its economy, liberalised its society and mores and set course towards a self-defining bicultural Aotearoa/New Zealand. This was an adventure into 'new territory'.

Who drove this revolution? What drove their restless urge for change? What New Zealand did these upstarts inherit? What did they do when they supplanted their elders? What Aotearoa/New Zealand did they leave behind and what of the future? This book explores answers to these questions.

Colin James was a political journalist through the last half century and also worked with the Institute of Policy Studies on the machinery of government and climate change. He edited National Business Review from 1983 to 1986 and New Zealand Books from 1993 to 1997. He has written eight books, a number of small books and multiple papers, articles and speeches. He was Stout Fellow in 1991 and was awarded an honorary doctorate in 2008 and a CNZM in 2023.

Waiheke Island

800 years of the history of Te Motu Ārai Roa

By Paul Monin

Paul Monin is Waiheke's best-known historian, and his third history of Waiheke is the most comprehensive yet.

When Paul first visited Waiheke in 1973 he was drawn to its beauty and rich backstory which has left so many traces on the island's rolling landscape.

There are more than forty pā sites on the island, and evidence of some of the earliest human habitation in Aotearoa.

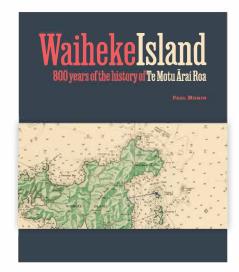

This beautifully illustrated volume is the culmination of decades of research, and captures island life from waka to fast ferries.

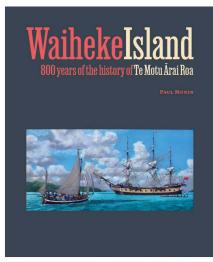

"Paul Monin is... one of the most perceptive historians of the contact period".

EDDIE SPARKLE'S BRIDAL TAXI

Frankie McMillan

Frankie McMillan is one of the leading writers of the short-short form in English, and Eddie Sparkle's Bridal Taxi, her seventh book, sees her at her best. The prose poems and small stories here demonstrate exceptional range, examining the tiniest psychodramas but also meditating on drownings and shootings and infidelities and nuclear warfare. McMillan finds the unusual in the everyday, and she is equally at home with lovers embracing in the fields and with reclusive aunts fading away in poky old houses. This is writing that reveals humans working out how to be their ridiculous and beautiful little selves. This is writing that feels like thinking.

"In less time than it takes to boil a kettle, Frankie McMillan's story-poems and poem-stories will unmoor your heart. Here is the absurd, dark, beautiful, surreal world, and here is McMillan, holding it out to you in all its brokenness, turning it this way and that until it sings."—Tania Hershman

"This dextrous, inventive collection is a masterclass on the possibilities of form. A writer of profound imaginative curiosity, McMillan interrogates real and surreal worlds – animals, angels, performers, thieves – with wit, sharp insight and a delight in the small, strange moments of lives."—Paula Morris

"Frankie McMillan hides the mystery of both our deepest psychological wounds and our most valued intimacies, inside poems and stories that enchant, the way intricate, miniature, singing mechanical birds might: but beware, they are sharp-eyed, and can bite with the teeth of truth." — Emma Neale

THE EMOTION DEALER

JACK REMIEL COTTRELL

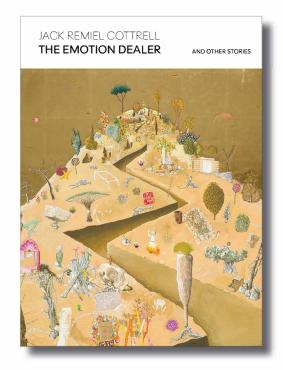

Jack Remiel Cottrell's second book of short fiction ushers the reader into a liminal world of grief and dreams. Stories of heartbreak and betrayal jostle with incisive cautionary tales about self-aware AI, deranged algorithms, memory transplants and bionic enhancements. The Emotion Dealer is a kaleidoscopic exploration of technology, art, cities, capitalism, disinformation, loneliness and greed. It is a guide for our troubled moment and a book that will make you wonder what – if anything – we are leaving for those who come after us.

"The Emotion Dealer is constantly surprising, deeply incisive, and finely attuned to the way people interact with each other. Cottrell is already a master of the short story form." —Brannavan Gnanalingam

"Inventive and full of feeling, this is fiction that gets into your blood, changes you. Cottrell is an alchemist of language, a mad scientist of story, transmuting essential ideas and moments into fascinating and faceted prose formations – you'll be dazzled and moved by even the briefest of these glistering creations. In this collection, you have just about everything you could ever want, right there with you." —Anthony Lapwood

"The Emotion Dealer is astounding. This is a collection of urgent contrasts – gentle yet brutal, hopeful yet terrifying, dark yet so full of light. Jack takes us on a journey of what could be and is, leading us by the hand into a future as wicked and foreboding as it is radiant. Fears are brought to life and created in our image, and the result is absolutely captivating. The best works are those that make us feel, and The Emotion Dealer demands we do. The challenge is exhilarating. What a gift this collection is." —Emily Writes

Jack Remiel Cottrell (Ngāti Rangi) is the author of one previous collection of short fiction, Ten Acceptable Acts of Arson (Canterbury University Press, 2021). His work has been published in anthologies such as Te Awa o Kupu (Penguin, 2023) and Year's Best Aotearoa New Zealand Science Fiction and Fantasy (Paper Road Press, 2021). Whales, Snails and Lobster Tales

Andrew Penniket

Deep and Meaningful Productions, 1 November 2025, RRP $45.00 ISBN: 9780473757489 404pages PB 170 x 240 mm

A fascinating memoir of a New Zealand underwater cameraman, published on the 50th anniversary of New Zealand's first marine reserve, at Goat Island.

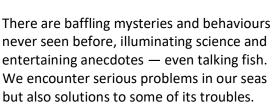

In Whales, Snails and Lobster Tales, underwater cameraman and documentary maker Andrew Penniket draws on fifty years of diving adventures across the South Seas, from witnessing the majesty of life under the Antarctic ice to being defecated on by a sperm whale in Tonga. He dances with swimming snails at Kaikōura and reveals the intimate lives of lobsters in the dead of night.

These are stories of sea-loving people and remote places, great success and total failure. Penniket reveals the challenges of filming octopus and the trials of following an orca tribe around New Zealand. He journeys to the bottom of Milford Sound, gets squashed by a submersible in the Marlborough Sounds and witnesses one of nature's greatest spectacles — the courtship of giant cuttlefish, the peacocks of the sea.

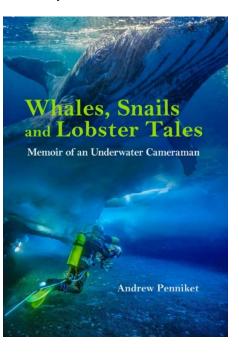

He voyages to remote volcanoes to film their tame grouper and takes us cave diving inside mountains. We travel to subantarctic islands swarming with penguins and sea lions then venture far out to sea to chase bluefin tuna.

Entertainingly written and complemented with stunning photographs, Whales, Snails and Lobster Tales will appeal to anyone interested in the sea: divers, fishers, students, adventurers, and nature lovers.

Author Note

'After four decades of underwater filming, I am recording some of my abundant memories and stories for other divers, students, fisherfolk, adventurers, nature lovers and anyone interested in the sea. I relive adventures and trials - the dangers of cave diving and the pain of filming in subfreezing waters under the ice in Antarctica. And I reminisce about the beauty of fragile coral reefs in Fiordland and the joys of diving with jumping dolphins and courting whales.

During my long career, I have witnessed and filmed for the first time many intimate behaviours, including the sensitive courtship and mating of triggerfish, panicking stingrays pursued by orca and the spectacular pre-dawn release of lobster larvae. Via the television screen, I have been privileged to share these events with millions of people around the world, and now I am revealing a bit of the background: anecdotes about animals and people, the obstacles and dangers encountered, the struggles and the rewards.

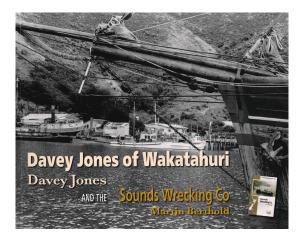

Throughout my years of travel, working in both remote locations and more familiar surroundings, I have observed many of the challenges facing the oceans today. But I have also encountered solutions to many of its problems, sometimes simple answers - better ways to manage the sea that can bring great improvements to its health and well-being.

The timing of this memoir is especially relevant as this year is the 50th anniversary of New Zealand's first marine reserve, at Goat Island. Having snorkeled and dived in the reserve for nearly 60 years, I can offer a rare insight into the remarkable changes this undersea habitat has undergone, transformed from impoverished kina barrens to lush kelp forests full of fish and lobsters. Marine reserves are among the most positive and essential directions for the future of our seas.'

About the Author

Andrew Penniket is an award-winning underwater cameraman and documentary maker whose career has spanned four decades. Since starting with TVNZ's Natural History Unit in Dunedin, his work has featured in acclaimed international productions for many broadcasters, including BBC, National Geographic, NHNZ and Discovery Channel. Trained as a biologist, Andrew has combined extensive knowledge of marine life with an artist's eye, developing a reputation for capturing intimate, behaviour-driven sequences that reveal both the beauty and mystery of underwater life, from the midnight rambles of lobsters to the cooperative hunting of orca tribes. His images and films have been widely used to support marine protected areas, and he is a staunch advocate for increased conservation in the sea.

Davey Jones of Wakatahuri

Davey Jones and The Sounds Wrecking Co

9780473744618 RRP $60.00 D Jones Paperback 184 Pages 260 x 210 mm Sept 2025

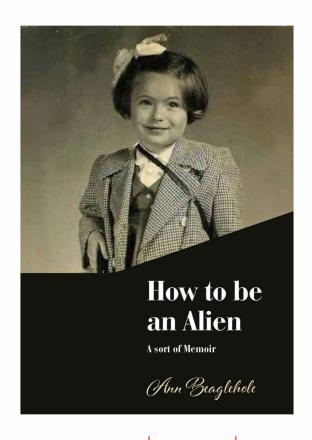

A farm, a fish-factory, a boat-building facility, a ship-breaking base and a community hub, Wakatahuri in the outer Pelorus Sound at the top of the South Island has been many things to many people. For legendary navigator Kupe it was a place to repair his waka. For the McManaway, Wells and Jones families it has been a place to live and thrive and for countless fishermen, seafarers and summer visitors it has been a place of fascination and wonder. From the early 1900s there was a post office and a school, and even in the 1950s there was a permanent population of 42. It became a scrap-yard for ships. When Wellingtonians had 'Rotten Row', an eclectic collection of veteran steamships and hulks rising and falling with the tide off Kaiwharawhara, the Wells brothers had Wakatahuri, their very own 'Rotten Row'.

Davey Jones came to Wakatahuri as a young fisherman in 1956 and he still lives there much of the time. This book draws on the stories he heard from the Wells family and from his own experiences as a ship-breaker, boatbuilder, trawlerman and ocean wanderer. Above all it's a book about ships and boats, the many vessels that were built, repaired or broken apart at Wakatahuri where the sea remains the only highway, and the men and women there who had saltwater in their veins.

How to be an Alien

ISBN 9781991164483 | RRP $37.50 | A.Beaglehole | Paperback | 266 Pages | 240 x 170 mm | Nov 2025

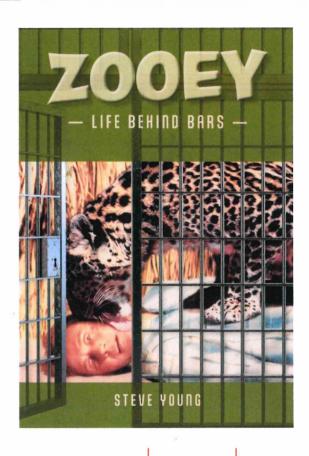

The book is a humorous memoir, with reflections on refugee policy and being 'not quite one of us.' A purpose of the book is to delve into how refugees survive and thrive in a strange new country and to better understand the long-term impact of historic trauma. The book also aims to shed light on shifting perceptions of being Jewish in Aotearoa. It moves between the personal and the political; the ridiculous and the profoundly serious and between past and present.

The book is Beaglehole's family's story and her community's. However, in several sections, she turns to history and to her imagination to fill in gaps in her memory of events and people of long ago. How to be an Alien begins amidst the chaos of revolution and counter revolution. A family must make an urgent decision to leave, or not to leave, their country. On a winter night in 1956, a mother, father and their daughter step over the barbed wire fences at the border in Hungary and make their way to Austria. Noone knows what the future holds, not for the family who have escaped a tyrannous regime, not for the grief stricken grandmother left behind.

OBSERVATIONS

9780473755935 RRP $29.99 M Fraser Paperback 82 Pages 170 x 250mm Oct 2025

This story points out how we have lived, how we got projects completed and what was achieved by practical means in the early 20th century.

It also points out what we have lost. Decisions were made with clarity and both government and private sectors were held accountable for their work.

Bureaucratic roles in our lives have grown to a level where the central and local governments and much of the civil service are grossly overstaffed. Time after time they fail to deliver tangible results in the very area they represent. Confusion, delays, muddling and poor management are rampant.

The consequences reach far beyond lost time and productivity. Back in the 1940s it took roughly three years income from the average wage earner to cover the cost of a home. Now it is ten.

Debt levels have risen from negligible to $220,000 per average household.

Climate change is probably the greatest challenge facing the world. Mankind has caused the emissions that are still increasing. Technology is not yet winning the battle. Only mankind can reverse the emissions by living a more conservative lifestyle. Less waste, less movement, and more self reliance.

Give it a go. It can open up a rewarding lifestyle right in your own locality.

MENTAL HEALTH AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

A NEW ZEALAND GUIDE

Edited by Marozane Spamers

Mental health is an urgent and growing concern within the criminal justice system. The high prevalence of mental health concerns among those interacting with the criminal justice system highlights the importance of developing and implementing evidence-based, informed and culturally competent mental health-related policy.

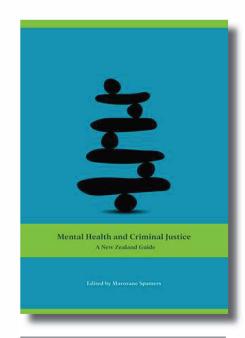

This is the first book in Aotearoa New Zealand that focuses on mental health policy and law at different stages of the criminal justice process. Bridging academic insight and practical application, the book takes a critical, rights-based and multidisciplinary approach, engaging with law, criminology, psychology and political science to explore the realities of how mental health intersects with justice in policy, practice and lived experience.

The book is aimed at third year and postgraduate students and will appeal to students of criminal justice, law, sociology, criminology, psychology and psychiatry. It will also be a valuable resource for people working in the mental health and criminal justice space, including lawyers, policy makers, forensic experts, corrections, police, victim advocacy services, citizens advice, mental health services and other related parties or organisations – as well as anyone navigating the criminal justice system.

"Mental health touches every corner of New Zealand's criminal justice system – from those accused or convicted of crime, to the victims and families affected, to the professionals working within it. This book constitutes a timely and essential resource for understanding these complex intersections."

—Helen Farley, Director of Criminal Justice, University of Canterbury | Te Whare Wānanga o Waitaha

Marozane Spamers is a lecturer in law and criminal justice in the Faculty of Law – Te Kaupeka Ture at the University of Canterbury and a research fellow in the Faculty of Law at the University of the Free State, South Africa. Marozane's research interests are in mental health and criminal justice, drawing on criminal law, criminology and human rights law. She is particularly invested in determining how criminal law and criminal justice policy can be used to protect the human rights of people with mental health concerns while achieving the goals of the criminal justice system. Marozane holds an LLB, an LLM in criminal law and an LLD in mental health law from the University of Pretoria, South Africa, as well as an MPhil in criminological research from the University of Cambridge, United Kingdom.

Twelve beautiful poems for the months of the year: poems for birthdays, for special anniversaries, poems to simply say "I'm thinking of you this month, and isn't nature wonderful?".

Our Almanac for 2026 starts with a sleeping world waiting for "all the coloured retinue of spring" and ends with busy sparrows teaching the poet a new way of noticing, even in midwinter. All the poems in this vivid mini-anthology capture the essence of each season, showing how marvels of nature can transport us if we stop to look:

"Miracle of the fat pigeons in the road and of the sun rising golden and ancient and of the hush of the sea..."

from 'Miracle of the Solstice' by Wendy Pratt

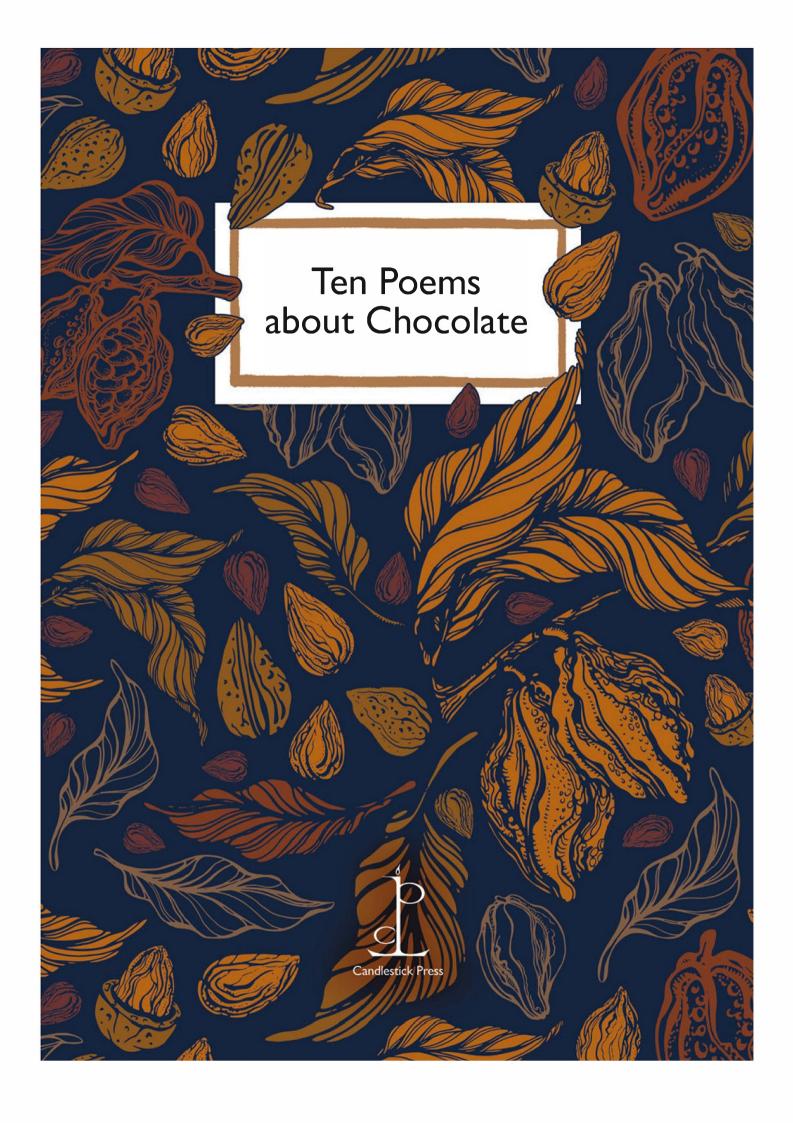

When our busy human lives need more joy in the moment, these twelve inspiring poems provide a little shot of comfort and delight.

Poems by Jane Burn, David Clarke, John Drinkwater, Victoria Gatehouse, Roz Goddard, Chris Hardy, Ted Kooser, George Marion McClellan, WS Merwin, Vic Pickup, Wendy Pratt and Tim Relf.

Everyday treat, indulgent luxury or an addiction we can't or won't break – many of us have a passionate relationship with chocolate, making it perfect subject matter for poetry.

This luscious mini-anthology celebrates preferences for milk or plain, pralines or fondants, rich truffles or the sweetest hot chocolate drinks. Anyone who has ever craved chocolate will identify with poems that explore its sensuous aspects – taste, texture, mouthfeel – in an intensity akin to love.

And if chocolate is like love, then these poems explore the depth and shape of that love:

"Knotted smoke, dark punch of earth and night and leaf, for a taste of you any woman would gladly crumble to ruin."

from 'Chocolate' by Rita Dove

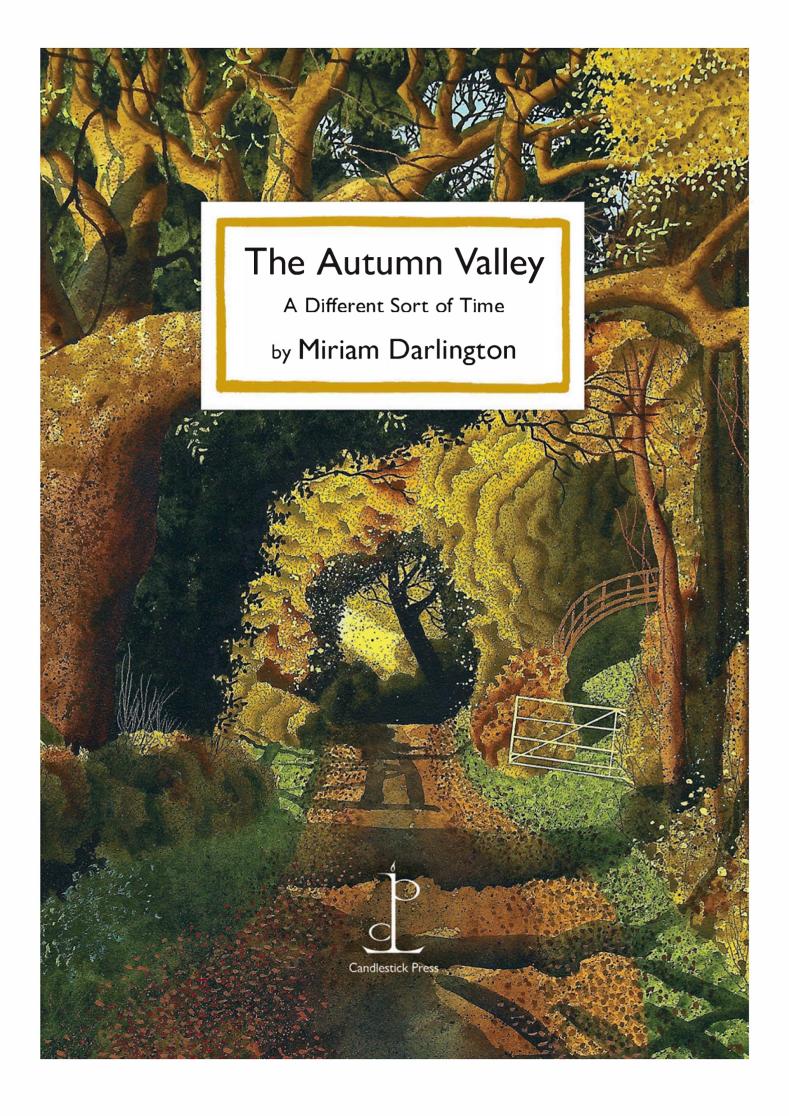

These entertaining, unexpected and moving poems also explore the history of chocolate, and the price paid by those whose hard work brings it to our lips.

Poems by Clare Best, Alison Brackenbury, Barbara Crooker, Rita Dove, Roy Marshall, Ife Olatona, Pauline Prior-Pitt, Louis Simpson, Oenone Thomas and Noel Williams.

Round a bend at the end of a deep lane where trees "lean in over the track" we find ourselves in a hidden Gloucestershire valley. This richly lyrical essay by leading naturalist Miriam Darlington brings us owls and wrens, hibernating ladybirds and an old orchard where windfall crab apples melt into the soft earth.

Humans and animals alike are hunkering down ready for the cold season ahead. Tasks such as sweeping leaves and clearing gutters are woven into the parallel rhythms of the natural world, so that indoors and outdoors are brought into intimate harmony:

"Another dusk. Rain-mist muffles everything, softens the valley's curves. It's a different sort of time here. Leaf-slip time, brown and gold and copper leaves, of whitebeam, beech, alder. A churring comes from somewhere. A deer barks, and the night becomes creaturely again, breathes at the lit windows."

Written with loving attention to the lives of plants, insects and animals, these words are best enjoyed by a blazing fire or curled up in a favourite armchair after the curtains have been drawn.

Poems by Ronnie Goodyer and Stanley Plumly.

A MURMURATION OF STARLINGS

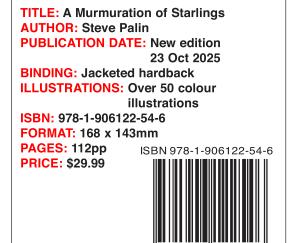

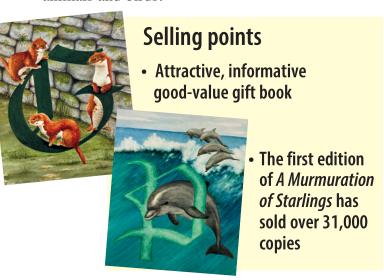

With 50 new paintings and entries for the collective nouns of animals, birds and insects, artist and author Steve Palin presents a fresh take on his best-selling A Murmuration of Starlings.

Some are beautifully illustrated classics: a pride of lions, even a raft of otters perhaps – but what about a business of ferrets or a descent of woodpeckers?

Many collective nouns have their roots in medieval times, in particular applied to those creatures hunted by man, and subject to the etiquette of their proper group names.

This elegant hardback gift book will appeal to all those with a fascination for the English language, those who want the answers for quizzes and crossword puzzles, and those with an interest in animals and birds.

IMPRESSIONISM IN GERMANY MAX LIEBERMANN AND HIS TIMES

EDITED BY MICHAEL PHILIPP, NERINA SANTORIUS, ORTRUD WESTHEIDER, AND DANIEL ZAMANI

As a groundbreaking painter and head of the Berlin Secession, Max Liebermann championed modernism and introduced French Impressionism to the German Empire. His influence reached far beyond Berlin, sparking a diverse movement that flourished in cities such as Dresden, Stuttgart, Karlsruhe, and Munich. Focusing on Liebermann's life and legacy, the catalog also examines his achievements as a collector and advocate for the avant-garde. It showcases his celebrated masterpieces alongside works by prominent peers such as Max Slevogt and Lovis Corinth, as well as contributions from more underappreciated figures including Gotthardt Kuehl, Maria Slavona, Lesser Ury, and Fritz von Uhde. With numerous chapter introductions and five longer research essays, the book offers a wide-ranging perspective, including topics such as the artistic exchange between France and Germany; the role of Jewish patrons in fostering Germany's embrace of French art; and the challenges Liebermann faced during the rise of the Nazi regime. Lavishly illustrated and expertly curated, this catalog provides an essential study of Max Liebermann as the central figure of German Impressionism while situating his work within the broader artistic and historical contexts of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

ERICH HECKEL

EDITED BY VIVIAN ENDICOTT BARNETT WITH CONTRIBUTIONS BY BIRGIT DALBAJEWA, RENATE EBNER, ANDREAS GABELMANN, JILL LLOYD, AYA SOIKA, AND RAINER STAMM.

Erich Heckel, 1883–1970, was one of the co-founders of the Künstlergruppe Brücke (Artists' Group Bridge), established in Dresden in June 1905. He remained part of the group until it disbanded in May 1913. Despite his seminal role in the establishment of this critical early manifestation of German Expressionism, he has not garnered the same acclaim as his fellow Die Brücke artists such as Ernst Ludwig Kirchner and Karl Schmidt-Rottluff. As a result, there is a dearth of literature available on him in English and he has never had a solo exhibition in an American museum. This important publication, which accompanies a show at the Neue Galerie New York, aims to redress this oversight.

The texts presented in this lavishly illustrated monograph focus on Heckel's early career and cover topics ranging from his involvement with Die Brücke; the works he created during his idyllic summers in the Friesian beach resort of Dangast; his military service during World War I; and his bold and expressive woodcuts. Emphasis is placed on his portrait and landscape paintings and his vibrant pictures of bathers, which merge both genres. The authors will address the work he made in Dresden, Berlin, and northern Germany, in addition to his output while serving in Flanders during the war.

VIVIAN ENDICOTT BARNETT is an independent scholar. She has been the editor of and contributor to past Neue Galerie publications including Franz Marc and August Macke (2018) and Alexei Jawlensky (2017).

CARL SCHUCH AND FRANCE

EDITED BY ALEXANDER EILING, ROLAND DORN, JULIANE BETZ, AND NEELA STRUCK

A cosmopolitan artist who traveled between Austria, Germany, Italy, Holland, and France, Schuch absorbed diverse ideas that shaped his distinctive artistic vision. Bridging tradition and modernity, his work blends value painting with liberated brushwork, rich color contrasts, and a deep reverence for the natural world. Influenced by French masters like Courbet, Corot, Daubigny, Manet, Monet, and Cézanne, Schuch perfected his own fluid, rhythmic brushstrokes and luminous color. His still-life paintings and landscapes reflect meticulous explorations of light, and the materiality of paint.

This volume features eight insightful essays covering a range of topics related to Schuch's development, and artistic environment. Research using the latest art technology provides insights into the genesis of his paintings. Juxtapositions with works by his French contemporaries highlight both shared techniques and Schuch's unique identity. Richly illustrated with numerous color plates, the book captures the essence of the artist's mastery and showcases his groundbreaking style and enduring legacy. Perfect for seasoned art lovers and newcomers alike, this volume offers an inspiring analysis of light, color, and form, by an artist who drew deeply from France's artistic traditions and redefined the possibilities of painting in his time.

UNICORN THE MYTHICAL BEAST IN ART

EDITED BY BÉATRICE DE CHANCEL-BARDELOT, SÉVERINE LEPAPE, MICHAEL PHILIPP, NERINA SANTORIUS, AND ORTRUD WESTHEIDER

The unicorn has stimulated the imagination like no other animal. It has been documented in many cultures for centuries. Fascination with it continues to this day. While it might have been appropriated as a cute toy or pop culture icon, the history of the unicorn as a symbol is profound and multi-layered in Western and non-European art, in religion and mythology, in literature, natural science, and medicine. Contributions by Adrien Bossard, Béatrice de Chancel-Bardelot, Barbara Drake Boehm, Séverine Lepape, Michael Philipp, Annabelle Ténèze and Stefan Trinks trace the unicorn back to the ancient world, to medieval manuscripts, altarpieces, sculptures, cabinets of curiosities, and tapestries. Since the nineteenth century, artists such as Arnold Böcklin, René Magritte, and Rebecca Horn have rediscovered the mythical creature for themselves. For the first time, this publication presents a comprehensive summary of the unicorn's artistic journey from the second millennium BCE to the present day, situating it in the context of art and cultural history.

An expansive and awe-inspiring visual survey celebrating the stunning beauty of butterflies and moths across art, history, science, and culture

Description

Butterflies have enchanted people for thousands of years, capturing human imagination for so long that they are deeply entwined in our culture and history. Butterfly: Exploring the World of Lepidoptera delves into this enduring love for butterflies, moths, and caterpillars, taking readers on a journey across continents and cultures to discover the endless ways artists and image-makers throughout history, from ancient Egypt over 4,000 years ago to the present day, have been inspired by these ethereal insects.

Featuring more than 250 entries, each represented with a gorgeous large-scale image, this expansive visual survey spans a wide range of styles and media, including paintings, botanical illustrations, sculptures, nature photography, children' books, textiles, and jewelry.

Cleverly paired to highlight thought-provoking contrasts and similarities between them, regardless of the time period, the images showcase butterflies and moths - from the blue morpho and monarch to the death'-head hawkmoth - in all stages of their life cycles.

The vibrant colors in Eric Carle' childhood classic The Very Hungry Caterpillar complement the playfulness of a butterfly-filled collage by British Pop Artist Peter Blake, while the shape of the goddess Obsidian Butterfly, carved into stone in fourteenth-century Mexico, matches perfectly that of a falling moth, captured in a beautiful black and white photograph by Japanese artist Chuji Yasui.

Master storyteller Viktor Wynd is back with a gloriously grim collection of wickedly entertaining tales from around the world, guaranteed to tickle the darker side of the imagination.

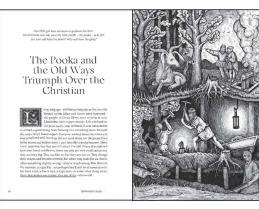

DARK FAIRY TALES STORIES FROM AROUND THE WORLD (THAT ARE DEFINITELY NOT SUITABLE FOR CHILDREN)

VIKTOR WYND, ILLUSTRATIONS BY LUCIANA NEDELEA

Viktor Wynd has always gravitated toward the weirder corners of folklore. On his extensive travels, he has amassed a trove of stories that refuse to play nice - filled with risqué twists, grotesque details, and endings that are surprisingly happy, though not always in the way one might expect. Having entertained audiences around the world with these tales, he has now written down some of his favorites in a book as beautifully produced as it is macabre. The stories were collected in Wales, Ireland, Arabia, Germany, Norway, Papua New Guinea, and Borneo and include the adventures of a one-eyed troll; the feckless Paddy O'Dwyer; a changeling child; a girl who thinks she can outwit a witch; the doomed Sinbad the Traveler; shapeshifters; and a baby-eating pig. Each chapter begins with Wynd's personal account of how he came to learn these stories. Arresting and intricate illustrations by Transylvanian artist Luciana Nedelea perfectly balance the charming and grotesque. The book also includes a guide to the art of learning and recounting fairy tales. With silver foil accents and stenciled edges, this volume feels like a forbidden artifact plucked from a dusty cabinet of curiosities.

VIKTOR WYND is a writer, artist, and the proprietor of the eponymous Museum of Curiosities, Fine Art and UnNatural History in London. He regularly leads expeditions to Papua New Guinea, the Congo and beyond, taking small groups with him via his boutique travel agency Gone with the Wynd. He is the author of Viktor Wynd's Cabinet of Wonders and The UnNatural History Museum (both published by Prestel). LUCIANA NEDELEA is an illustrator from Transylvania specializing in heavy metalstyle imagery. She holds a PhD in ancient history and archaeology.

A global survey of 250 of the most creative women practicing interior design from the beginning of the twentieth century to the present day

Description

The history of women' involvement in interior design is rich and varied. It is a discipline where women enjoy an equal standing with their male counterparts, yet it is typically framed as a design practice especially suited to women, secondary to the heroic role of architect or furniture designer.

This timely survey explores the ways in which women have shaped the built environment beyond the confines of the home, revealing their careers as true tastemakers of the twentieth and twenty-first century. Making Space shines a light on the diverse and influential work of 250 women who design interiors - well-known, unsung, and emerging - from more than 50 countries.

The featured designers represent myriad styles, from flamboyant maximalism to artfully arranged minimalism. There are the big names, such as Rose Uniacke, Kelly Wearstler, and Brigette Romanek; pioneers, including Dorothy Draper, Sybil Colfax, and Elsie de Wolfe; and those who have been almost entirely written out of history.

Beautifully designed and illustrated with hundreds of striking photographs, Making Space will inspire anyone who cares about the spaces within which they live.

Description

From the Academy Award-winning actor and #1 New York Times bestselling author of Greenlights comes an inspiring, faith-filled, and often hilarious collection of personal poetry and prayers about navigating the rodeo of life and chasing down the original dream, belief.

My prayers are my poems are my prayers.

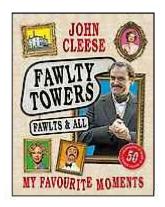

I've always relied on logic to make sense of myself and the world.

A prescriptionist at heart, I've always looked to reason to find the rhyme, the practical to get to the mystical, the choreography to find the dance, the proof to get to the truth, and reality to get to the dream.

I've been finding that tougher to do lately. It's more than hard to know what to believe in; it's hard to believe.

But I don't want to quit believing, and I don't want to stop believing $in \dots$ humanity, you, myself, our potential.

I think it's time for us to flip the script on what's historically been our means of making sense, and instead open our aperture to enchantment and look to faith, belief, and dreams for our reality.

Description

The James Webb Space Telescope took three decades from conception to launch but the wait has been worth it. The results of the most anticipated telescope of the 21st century have been nothing short of spectacular. The idea for the James Webb Space Telescope (JWST) was first raised in 1989, well before the enormously successful Hubble Space Telescope was launched. The infrared telescope with a mirror larger than four meters was launched on Christmas Day 2021. In the summer of 2022, NASA released the first scientific images from Webb to the amazement of more than 300,000 viewers who watched the event live, and hundreds of millions around the world who have viewed Webb's images since then.

Webb's Cosmos is written in the spirit of Terry Dickinson's enormously popular book Hubble's Universe, which has sold over 100,000 copies. This book contains both the classic Webb images that have already become famous and the latest images from the frontiers of science taken by Webb, some of which appear here for the first time.

Author Marcin Sawicki is a professional astronomer who is an active user of Webb's images and data and is the co-author of 20 research papers based on data taken with Webb. He brings a wealth of knowledge and personal experience to the book and explains the science behind the images in accurate but accessible and engaging language.

Webb's Cosmos first provides the needed historical and scientific background to understand how the telescope works and what it can do. The book then presents a curated selection of some 200 photographs with descriptive captions that narrate these images of the distant universe. Chapters include:

- Stars and gas clouds
- · Galaxies both near and far
- · Planets and our solar system
- Exoplanets.

With one-eighth of all bird species now under threat, special attention is given to environmental and conservation issues. The Encyclopedia's core articles are complemented by special features that provide detailed coverage of particular topics. Photo stories showcase superb examples of wildlife photography.

The clear, easy-to-read text of the Encyclopedia is enhanced by around 1,000 photographs revealing the enormous diversity of birds in their natural habitats, from Arctic tundra to tropical rain forest. In addition, a wealth of beautifully detailed color and line illustrations depict representative species from each family and highlight characteristic behaviors. Throughout, "Factfiles" with distribution maps and scale drawings place essential data at the reader's fingertips.

*Like the human eye, a camera can only focus on one thing at a time. But thanks to a process combining high-def digital photography, computer processing and years of painstaking work by photographer Philippe Martin, this limitation has been removed. Each bug, snake, flower or fish in this tome was photographed dozens of times, and the shots digitally overlaid so the entire depth of field is tack-sharp. -Wall Street Journal

A revolution in nature photography, now in paperback.

Philippe Martin revolutionized digital nature photography by "stacking" images. To take one photograph, he will shoot a subject hundreds of times, stack the images into a composite, and then clean up the composite image pixel by pixel. The result is a "quasi-3D" photograph of nature with such sharpness and brilliance that surely it will leap from the page. What's more, Martin takes the photographs in his subjects' natural setting, including inhospitable jungles.

Hyper Nature is a portfolio of Martin's stunning photographs of snails, orchids, dragonflies, snakes, frogs and many other creatures. The hyperrealism and large images bring the viewer into the heart of the scene, face to face with the subject, where he can discover the smallest detail. This is nature photography as never seen before. Martin also explains how he achieves his photographs, increasing readers' appreciation and leaving a legacy for new photographers. The most recent exhibition of Martin's photographs attracted one million visitors to the Luxembourg Gardens in Paris. Hyper Nature is ideal for all photography and nature enthusiasts as well as photographers, naturalists, educators, museum specialists and scientists.

About the author

Philippe Martin is an ecologist, photographer, including underwater subjects, and author of numerous books with a career spanning more than 40 years. He has also contributed to many books on nature, as author, co-author or illustrator. In 2012, Philippe Martin won Grand Prize for Digital Photography at the International Festival of Wildlife Photography in Montier-en-Der, France. His book Hyper Nature Tropical received the First Place "French Book Prize" 2014.

HOW TO ROB THE BANK OF ENGLAND

Keith Cheeseman Reveals the True Story of Britain's Biggest Ever Robbery CLIFFORD THURLOW

On a sunny May morning in 1990, a bank courier strode out of the Bank of England and, minutes later, was robbed at knifepoint of 301 bearer bonds valued at £292 million. It was the biggest theft in British history.

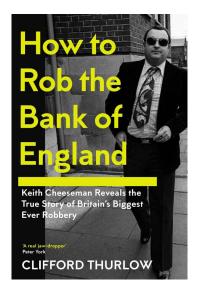

The thing is... when Keith Cheeseman received a call from a disbarred lawyer connected to London's underworld and attended a meeting on the night of the robbery, he counted £427 million in bonds - £135 million more than the Bank of England had reported.

As Keith set out to launder the bonds, Scotland Yard and the FBI were always one step ahead in tracking them down. Over the next eighteen months, two gangland figures were shot dead and more than eighty people were arrested. Keith was the only man ever jailed for the crime.

Keith Cheeseman is the last of the old-time gangsters, a con man who detests violence, wears Savile Row suits and gold watches, and loves classic cars and good dining. He bought non-league Dunstable Town football club and signed Manchester United star George Best to play for the team. He knew the legendary Kray twins and killer Frankie Fraser once threatened to snuff him out over a game of chess.

So what happened to the missing £135 million?

In this breath-taking adventure, featuring colourful characters from showbusiness alongside royalty, the IRA and even Pablo Escobar, Clifford Thurlow reveals Keith Cheeseman's incredible true story for the first time.

'This is a real jaw-dropper. The scale of the theft, the global links of the gangs. The extraordinary figure of Keith Cheeseman. I had no idea it's just wonderful!' Peter York

'Once started, it's impossible to put down. A fantastic read.' Dominic Littlewood

CLIFFORD THURLOW has been described as 'one of the UK's best ghostwriters'. He has worked on a wide range of titles, including Sunday Times best-sellers Runaway and Today I'm Alice. He worked with Wing Commander Mike Sutton to write Typhoon: The Inside Story of an RAF Fighter Squadron at War.

BIBLE STORIES

Fact, Fiction and Fantasy in Scripture GAVIN EVANS

Beginning with the rise of modern Pentecostalism before tracking back 2,500 years, author and academic Gavin Evans traces the history of the Abrahamic faiths, Christianity, Judaism and Islam. In this book he explores the New Testament, Hebrew Bible and the Qur'an.

Delving into recent archaeological research, Bible Stories presents evidence that tales such as those of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and also Moses, Joshua and the Exodus, were entirely mythological. Robust interrogation of the evidence allows Evans to go further still, casting doubt on the Jesus story and arguing that even if he did exist as a historical figure, we know next to nothing about him.

As well as examining these key religious texts, Bible Stories also holds modern atheism to account - critiquing the work of some of its most ardent advocates, Evans rejects a militant approach and makes a compelling argument for a softer, more tolerant atheism.

GAVIN EVANS grew up in South Africa and was intensely involved in antiapartheid activities in the 1980s. He is an established authority on the history of race science and discrimination and lectures at Birkbeck, University of London.

THE BATON AND THE CROSS

Russia's Church from Pagans to Putin LUCY ASH

'A TIMELY AND IMPORTANT BOOK' - ORLANDO FIGES

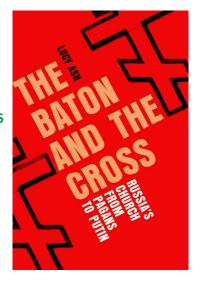

'SPELLBINDING' - ANDREI KURKOV

ONE OF HISTORY TODAY'S BEST BOOKS OF 2024

For more than a millennium, the Russian Orthodox Church has shown astonishing survival skills – from the Mongol yoke to tsarist demagoguery and enlightenment, from Soviet atheism to the chaotic 1990s. Now again, it is at the right hand of power, sanctifying Vladimir Putin's invasion of Ukraine.

In this provocative new book, Lucy Ash reveals how, under Putin, religion is being stripped of its spiritual content and used as a weapon to control the population. Orthodox clerics and their acolytes distort theology as they preach Slav Christian supremacy and drag Russia backwards into a new Middle Ages.

Combining historical research with vivid present-day reportage, The Baton and the Cross explores the impact the Church is having on millions of lives – from the tower blocks of big cities to far-flung villages in Siberia. Delving into the underbelly of politics, state security and big money, Ash shows how these forces have formed an unholy alliance with Orthodoxy in the dystopia of twenty-first century Russia.

'A vivid picture of the ways seismic moments of Russia's religious past are reverberating today.'
Financial Times

'History at its best – elegantly written, rigorously researched.' Lyse Doucet, BBC Chief International Correspondent

LUCY ASH is an award-winning presenter of radio and TV documentaries. An expert on Russia and post-Soviet countries, she was first sent to Moscow by the BBC in 1990 and has been covering the region's social, political, and cultural issues ever since. The Baton and the Cross is her first book.

THE MULTIVERSE

When One Universe Isn't Enough BRIAN CLEGG

The universe was supposed to be all there was – the whole of existence. For centuries the size of the universe and whether or not it is finite, fascinated scientists and philosophers.

But however big the universe may be, there being only one gave astronomers and cosmologists a headache. Existence as we know it is contingent on so many constants in nature which, if altered only slightly, would make life impossible. This seems so unlikely to happen by chance. What if, instead, there is in fact a vast range of different universes, with many variants of the universal contents, making ours just one of many that happens to be viable for life?

In this illuminating exploration, Brian Clegg delves into the endless possibilities of the multiverse. Investigating questions of expanding, parallel and communicating universes, this accessible guide takes the reader into one of the weirdest and most exciting areas of modern physics and cosmology.

BRIAN CLEGG is a popular science writer whose Dice World and A Brief History of Infinity were both longlisted for the Royal Society Prize for Science Books. He has written for publications including Nature, The Times and BBC Focus.

Description

Peek inside this vibrant guide to enjoy the enchanting, intricate patterns that have made author Lydia Cheney the "Kaleidoscope Queen"! This book captures both the quirks and visually stimulating wonders of the English Paper Piecing technique. Cheney is a master of EPP and, having overcome dyslexia to master her kaleidoscope methods, has built an intuitive way for students to digest these notoriously challenging patterns. Whether you're a seasoned or a novice quilter, you'll find that the step-by-step guidance within will help you refine your fussy-cutting skills and confidently create kaleidoscope blocks like you've been at it for years. Or go beyond the "scope" of the theme to craft different motifs, including animals, hearts, and feathers. In no time, you'll be quilting for small accent pieces like pillows or even building more ambitious, fully formed quilts.

The first book from pastry prodigy Yann Couvreur. Yann, the rising star of Parisian pastry, was initially trained at the Trianon Palace in Versailles, then became the pastry chef of the luxury hotels Eden Rock Saint-Barthélemy, Le Burgundy, and Prince de Galles. In May 2016 he opened his first pastry shop in Paris, near the Canal Saint-Martin, and another in June 2017 in Le Marais. He now has branches all over the capital. He has also opened shops internationally in Miami, Dubai, Seoul, Riyad and Doha.

Dominique Ansel, the French pastry chef in NYC, and creator of the famous Cronut, a croissant-donut hybrid, says of Yann Couvreur in his introduction to the book:

'It takes a great deal of precision and scientific knowledge to be a pastry chef. At the same time, to create a truly appealing dessert, one must embrace romance, beauty, and the carefree pleasure of something sweet and decadent. It's this balance of science and art that makes Yann an exceptional pastry chef. He works with flavours from a perspective that has become his unique style and signature. The pages of this book are filled with both detailed and delicious recipes through which, I hope, Yann will inspire many future pastry chefs and encourage them to feel the same passion we share.'

This modern and elegant book reflects the visual identity of his shops, including his fox mascot, and contains 80 recipes, mostly sweet but with some savoury dishes as well.

Marc Haeberlin has a sublime culinary heritage: following in the footsteps of his father Paul, he is the fourth generation to cook at the Auberge de L'III in IIIhaeusern, which has been in existence for over 150 years, and has held 3 stars in the Michelin guide for 50 years. He has also worked alongside Paul Bocuse, and Jean and Pierre Troisgros.

According to the Michelin Guide:

'The Auberge de l'Ill is much more than just a restaurant. It embodies the Alsatian inn in all its glory — an inviting and friendly place, untouched by the passage of time, where every customer is welcomed like a member of the family... It is an institution in the region, but also renowned throughout France and beyond. Since it was established in 1882 the restaurant has made a name for itself thanks to its matelote with riesling and dishes based on local game. Marc Haeberlin, grandson of the founders, now serves the classical repertoire (foie gras terrine served by the spoonful, frog's leg mousseline, and salmon soufflé) alongside more modern creations.'

The legend lives on and has expanded with the creation of the Hôtel des Berges and the opening of three Auberges de l'Ill in Japan.

Laurent Dupont's magnificent photographs throughout the book capture not only the elegance of the plated recipes but the beauty of the countryside and especially the III, the placid river flowing under the willows past the family's inn.

The much-anticipated debut cookbook from the lauded chef behind BiBi, the innovative and groundbreaking Indian restaurant in London beloved by critics and customers alike

Description

The much-anticipated debut cookbook from the lauded chef behind BiBi, the innovative and groundbreaking Indian restaurant in London beloved by critics and customers alike

Chet Sharma began his career as an academic before working as a development chef for many of the world' best restaurants, from Mugaritz in San Sebastian, Spain, to Moor Hall in West Lancashire, in the north of England. When the time came to open his own restaurant, his heritage and background provided the inspiration for BiBi, the name being a term used affectionately throughout India to mean 'lady of the house', or grandmother. Yet his food is much more than an homage to authentic Indian cuisine. 'Our food doesn't necessarily look Indian on the plate,' Chet says. 'It' modern and progressive, but if an Indian grandmother walked into the dining room and tasted a dish, she would still understand its roots.'

Sharma's much anticipated debut cookbook weaves together recipes for 60 of his exquisitely detailed signature dishes with a series of personal essays that explore his memories of the Indian subcontinent and the personalities and dishes of his heritage. Readers will discover iconic dishes from the restaurant' repertoire, including 'Nimbu Pani', 'Wookey-hole cheese papad,' and the signature 'sharmaji' Lahori Chicken', as well as some of Chet' playful takes on traditional Indian dishes, such as 'seekh Kebabs' and 'Alphonso Mango Lassi'. A substantial 'Essentials' section presents recipes for BiBi' bespoke masalas, stocks, and other core components of the restaurant' unique menu.

BiBi The Cookbook also features reflections on the restaurant from some of its most esteemed guests, including Andoni Aduriz, Aziz Ansari, Mark Birchall, Ryan Chetiyawardana, Brett Graham, Tom Kerridge, Henrietta Lovell & Richard Hart, Trevor Noah, Olly Smith, and Hans Zimmer.

Eat To Climb Nutrition for Climbers Mina Leslie-Wujastyk

THE BOOK

Eat to Climb by Mina Leslie-Wujastyk is a comprehensive guide to nutrition for climbers. Whether you're a weekend warrior or a seasoned pro, this book will help you cut through the noise of nutrition fads and make informed, confident decisions about fuelling your body.

The book is split into two sections – principles and methods. Principles explores the foundations of nutrition: energy intake, macronutrients, micronutrients, hydration and supplements. You'll gain a clear understanding of how protein, fat and carbohydrates support training, performance and recovery along with insight into key vitamins and minerals, fluid intake requirements and ergogenic aids.

The methods section shows you how to apply these principles in real life, with a focus on flexibility and autonomy. Specific chapters look at crag nutrition, injury recovery, weight loss, intuitive eating and the specific needs of female climbers.

Throughout, you'll find powerful insights from top climbers. From Shauna Coxsey's honest account of her struggles with food as a young athlete, to Molly Thompson-Smith's diligent approach to nutrition when injured, and Billy Ridal's tactics for eating when he freed the Nose on El Cap, their stories bring the science to life.

Today's climbers increasingly recognise that long-term performance isn't built on calorie restriction or the chronic search for lightness. And as a community we can all be healthier, stronger and get more from our climbing as we learn to eat to climb.

This newest book about emotions from a beloved author and illustrator is a powerful and timely exploration of childhood loneliness.

WHEN I FEEL LONELY

BRITTA TECKENTRUP

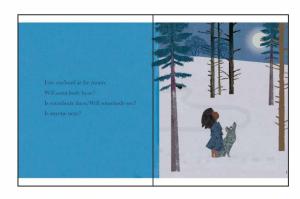

With luminous, evocative illustrations and rhymed texts, this book gently explores the feeling of loneliness through the perspective of a young girl. It acknowledges that, while feeling alone is natural and something everyone experiences, it also conveys how unsettling and scary the sensation can be. In her characteristically sensitive style, Teckentrup explores the quiet moments when the world seems distant and we are left grappling with the heavy silence that surrounds us. The narrative doesn't shy away from the intensity of these emotions, instead offering an honest portrayal of how loneliness can feel like an all-encompassing shadow. In a world where many children, and adults, are grappling with such intense emotions, When I Feel Lonely provides a calm, compassionate and understanding voice, helping young readers to recognize and name their feelings. The book reassures children that while loneliness can be sad and difficult, it is a part of life that everyone experiences. And best of all it offers a glimmer of hope, showing that even in the darkest moments, there is the possibility of light and connection ahead.

BRITTA TECKENTRUP is a German-born author and illustrator who has gained international recognition for her work in children's literature. With a career spanning over two decades, she has authored and illustrated more than one hundred books, which have been translated into multiple languages. Previous titles include When I See Red, When I Feel Brave, The Swing, the Fluffyville series and the Big Hedgehog and Little Hedgehog series, all published by Prestel.

Matisse was one of the most original artists of the 20th century. He became famous for his use of colour and early "Wild Beast' paintings. As every parent knows, there is nothing more stressful than being away from a child even if it's only for a few days. In this heartwarming book, Wendy Tugwood captures perfectly how the love between a mother and child copes with separation.

When we're apart I miss you so
I wish I didn't have to go
I miss your face, your touch, your smell,
Your silliness I know so well.
I think of how you sing to me,
"I love you too... I love you three!"
On goes our love and counting game
A game that always ends the same.

Needing to express how much they love each other, parent and child play the old familiar counting game. The child says "I love you," the parent replies "I love you too," and the child, gleefully, replies "I love you three!" From there they continue counting until they reach "I love you ten."

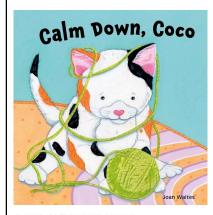

*I Love You Too, I Love You Three will delight parents and children alike and children will not only learn their numbers, they will gain assurance that, no matter what happens, the parent's love, like the

It sounds like Angus needs to be rescued!
